He was in the midst of a vigorous denunciation of the proposals for industrial peace made a year ago by Lord Malchett, formerly Sir Aifred Mond. He quickly recovered when carried to a room below the hall where the congress is meeting. He had made an impassioned speech urging the trades unions to protect themselves by independent growth rather than by alliances with the "enemy."

He declared no change had taken place in the policy of the employers, although hope had been held out with the start of conversations on the plan of Baron Malchett of Lindford for closer co-operation between the employers and workers.

FOR SCHOOL RE-OPENING Wise Mothers Buy -

HURLBU

THE kiddies will soon be back to school. What a relief for Mothers! But, of course, you will need new shoes for these playing feet. Thousands of Mothers will buy Hurlbut's for their children. They always do, because they last longer and outwear inferior makes.

When you pay more for Hurlbut's than ordinary shoes, it is just that difference of price which makes possible the outstanding quality contained in every pair of Hurlbut's. They do actually represent lowest-price-per-day's-wear.

Hurlbut's are roomy, yet well-fitting, with specially-designed features for growing feet—the Hurlbut Welt, the Cushion Insole, and the thick, broad extension sole—all of which let tender feet grow naturally.

All Hurlbut Authorized Dealers across Canada have been selected because of their reputation for service and fair-dealing in the selling of Misses', Women's and Children's Shoes. They are competent to fit your child with Hurlbut Shoes.

Claude Neon Patents have just been held valid in the United States. In consequence, numerous agents and representatives are trying to dump their surplus stocks upon unwary Canadian firms. This leaves the Canadian purchasers open to law suit and in possession of signs for which no service or maintenance is available.

Already, some 26 illegitimate manufacturers of Neon on the Pacific Coast have been forced to discontinue manufacturing or offering for sale Neon luminous tubes, and a restraining order has been issued against the largest infringing company in the States, i.e., The Rainbow Lights of New York. Similar action is being taken against the remaining infringing companies, including Brilliant Tube and Neale Incorporated

England, that alleged British harvesters had been used for strikebreaking in Canada and that many had received rough treatment, and that one had been found hanged, the belief of his friends being that he had been murdered, was started to-day by David Kirkwood, Labor member of the British House of Commona for Dumbarton, Scotland.

At a conference of railway and Federal Immigration officials Mr. Kirkwood laid the charges that had been cabled to him on the table and asked for expianations regarding them.

After the conference Mr. Kirkwood said he was satisfied the immigration and railway officials had given him all the information they could.

The conference had been called to enable him to determine on whom responsibility should be placed for seeing that British harvesters or immigrants generally should not be stranded when they came to Canada. He said he had not yet arrived at any conclusion, and would defer a decision until he had completed his investingation at Saskatoon.

CALLS IT HAPHAZARD

Mr. Kirkwood denounced what he termed the haphazard immigration system prevailing new.

"The men were brought out and no proper provision is made for their welfare," he declared. "They are given work on farms all right as a rule apparently, but no proper provision is made for them should the weather be against harvesting operations. They are fed by the farmers and they are housed—and by the way, when in the Saskatoon district I mean to see what accommodation is provided—but they get no pay. The men ought to be taken care of. The immigration should be properly organized so the men will have a fair chance from the time they strive here to the moment they leave if they do not want to stay. DESCRIBED AS DISGRACEFUL.

Mr. Beatty drew attention to the important advances in productivity observable in the pulp and paper and in the mining industries. The latter had advanced to an importance probably realized by few.

According to a return of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, mining and its allied industries during eight of the first nine months of last year led in the production of railway freight.

The industry was still in its infancy, and if future development approached present promise, the result would be a largely increased home market for farm produce and general merchandise, as well as a broadened market for labor, providing more scope for. Canadian youth, and possibly attracting to Canada a desirable class of labor, other than agricultural, to assist in the upbuilding of the country.

FAMINE THREAT HOME

When comparison was made between existing conditions and those of the six-year period ending with 1924, it was seen that those for June last were over 70 per cent above normal, while industrial employment in general was 16 per cent above normal.

The movement of investment funds toward Canada had continued upon a very large scale, and industrial securities, with their prospects of larger earning powers, had come in for increased attention. United States and Brittsh investors were important factors in the present ample supply of funds for new Canadian enterprises, but the prosperity and thrift of Canadians had much to do with it.

C.P.R. LEADERS

VISITS OF THE PRESIDENT AND DIrectors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company always must be regarded as events of unusual importance. The great organization they direct has vast interests on this Island. It controls railroads, millions of acres of land, hotels, and a large number of steamships of which Victoria is the headquarters, as well as a magnificent trans-Pacific fleet which calls here; and it may be taken for granted that these periedical trips of inspection are designed for the purpose of obtaining information which will lead to the improvement of this big system. Beyond all this lie the fact that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is an institution whose activities affect every stratum of the social and economic life of the country. and that the directors are outstanding Canadians who are playing decisive parts in the building up of this Dominion. It should not be forgotten that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, as a public utility, is one of the agencies established by Parliament for the unification of Canada. Hence, those who control its destinies also very largely control the destinies of the country, and therefore must be regarded as public men with public responsibilities. As far as Vancouver Island is concerned, we may hope that the visit of President Beatty and his associates will result in a still further expansion of the company's interest here to the advantage of company and pub-

THE WEST KOOTENAY POWER DISPUTE

THE PEOPLE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA are more than ordinarily interested in the dispute over rates which the West Kootenay Power and Light Company is charging consumers in the southern Interior of the province. The matter was referred to a board of investigation under the Water Branch of the provincial Department of Lands; but this body has expressed the opinion that it does not possess jurisdiction to pass upon charges that might be levied by the power corporation in its operations outside the territory specified in the license issued under the Water Act. Counsel for consumers outside the licensed area contend that the Board is competent to approve or disapprove such tolls as may be charged there. Upon this point an appeal will

This dispute obviously furnishes another argument in favor of the establishment in British Columbia of a strong and wholly impartial public utilities commission. The agency that was employed in the case in question is competent to deal only with departmental matters; it was never intended to clothe such a Board with any more authority. But the subject of power and power development is occupying such a vital position in the economic and industrial life of the province that it now is apparent that adequate action to protect the interests of the public must be taken without delay. It is not suggested, of course, that the West Kootenay Power and Light Company would be disposed to take undue advantage of any situation which might arise in the absence of any body to which consumers might look for redress for such grievances under which they might consider they were suffering. It should be borne in mind, nevertheless, that British Columbia's expansion in the next few years will be so intimately purposes that it obviously would be in the best interests of all concerned to erect the proper machinery to deal with the question of rates and privileges concerning corporations and their clients as circumstances may warrant.

We on Vancouver Island are intimately concerned in the development of power. It is not too much to say that within the next decade our industrial landscape will undergo very considerable change; and in that transformation the harnessing of the Island's "white coal" will play an important part. In that exploitation of one of our most valuable resources. wever, it is essential the public interest be properly safeguarded. The logical agency to insure that is a competent public utilities commission.

CANADA'S GOVERNORS-GENERAL

SINCE CONFEDERATION CANADA HAS had thirteen Governors-General, and the Geographic Board of Canada records that all have been orated in place-names. In this connection, wever, it should be noted that, as Canadian Governors-General bear famous names and since this list refers only to Governors since Confederation in 1867. many civil divisions and physical features which at first might appear to have been named after a Governor-General-for example, Grey County, Ontariowere in reality named for an ancestor. To take in all cases of names given in honor of Governors-General would make a long list and the following are the more ortant or more picturesque:

The villages of Monck in Wellington County, and Monckland in Stormont County, both in Ontario, are named after Viscount Monck, while Lisgar Township in Ontario, Lisgar Station in Quebec, and Lisgar Electoral Division in Manitoba are called after Baron Lisgar. Lord Dufferin's name is preserved in a parish and village in New Brunswick, in a county and township in Ontario, and in an electoral division in Manitoba. Lorne is a very-popular name. There is a Lorne Township in Ontario and villages of the name in New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario. Other names with Lorne as the basis are: Lorne Creek in British Columbia, Lorne House in Quebec, Lorne Park in Ontario, Lorne Vale in Nova Scotia, and Lornevilles in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario. The Marquis of Lorne also suggested the name of the province of Alberta which commemorates his wife the Princess Louise Caroline Alberta. Lake Louise in the same province also bears the name of the Princess, while Louise and Lorne are the names of lakes in Manitoba. Mount Lansdowne in the Yukon, Lansdowne Lake in Keewatin, and villages in Ontario and Nova Scotia, as well as an electoral division in Manitoba and a township in Ontario, are among the features on which the name of the Marquis of Lansdowne has been bestowed. Stanley villages in Ontario and New Brunswick recall Baron Stanley of Preston, as well as Stanley Bridge in Prince Edward Island and Stanley Section in Nova Scotia. A mountain in Alberta and a lake in Mackenzie District, Northwest Territories, are two of the principal features named after the Earl of Aberdeen. A nountain in British Columbia and a lake in northern Quebec bear Lord Minto's name, as well as villages in Manitoba, Ontario and New Brunswick. Earl Grey is recalled by a mountain and pass in British Columbia, a village in Manitoba and by a river in Mackenzie District, Northwest Territories. There is also a Lady Grey Lake in the same district. The city of Port Arthur, Ontario, takes its name from the Duke of Connaught, who was serving with the Rifle Brigade in Montreal when General (afterwards Sir Garnet) Wolseley on his expedition to Fort Garry in 1870 named it Prince Arthur's Landing. Devonshire, after the Duke of Devonshire, is the name of an Ontario village, while Evelyn Pass in Jasper Park, Alberta, is named after the Duchess of Devonshire. The names of Viscount Byng and Viscount Willingdon are borne by mountains in Alberta. Here is the list of Governors-General since Confederation: Viscount Monck, 1867-1868.

Baron Lisgar, 1868-1872. Earl of Dufferin, 1872-1878. Marquis of Lorne, 1878-1883. Marquis of Lansdowne, 1883-1888. Baron Stanley of Preston, 1888-1893. Earl of Aberdeen, 1893-1898. Earl of Minto, 1898-1904. Earl Grey, 1904-1911. Duke of Connaught, 1911-1916. Duke of Devonshire, 1916-1921. Baron Byng, 1921-1926. Viscount Willingdon, 1926.

THE WEST COAST ROAD

TT IS POINTED OUT BY THE PROVINcial Department of Public Works that all the money appropriated by the late Government for work on the West Coast Road for this season already has been expended. But it is not clear whether it will be possible to divert other unused appropriations to this undertaking so that additional work may be done while climatic conditions are favorable. Attorney-General Pooley no doubt will use his influence with the Minister of Public Works in this re-

Should the work on the road have to be abandoned for the time being, however, we may assume that at the next session of the Legislature sufficient money will be allocated to finish the undertaking as rapidly as possible. It is not necessary to repeat the economic arguments under many heads which amply justify this project. The Victoria members and Mr. Pooley are convinced of what its completion will mean mmercial life of this city, of what it will mean in a business sense to the whole of the West Coast. We may be assured, therefore, that they will be just as enthusiastic in the matter as was the late Ministry.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

AIR CONSCIOUSNESS

It is for the protection of London and its seacoast centres that Oreat Britain is building up one of the most powerful air forces in the world, for if the coasts are safe the interior has less to fear. The United States has far more coast to shield in this way; hence this country has even greater need of a strong and efficient naval air force.

ISOLATION OR EMPIRE?

I visualize the future of Empire as a future of Imperial trade combines, with factories and research stations, not only in Britain, but in every Deminion, producing, not for millions, but for hundreds of millions of people. There can only be one answer to the questions of the property of the combine of th pire or isolation. Every day with new tion of Empire or isolation. Levely day the interaction of Empire or isolation. Transport and communications, new annihilations of time and space, makes that answer more obvious and the task less difficult. On the other hand, there is no room for delay. Unless we tackle the problem with all our ability and with all our determination there is real danger of a gradual our determination there is real danger of a gradual our determination there is real danger of a gradual drifting apart of the great complex which so much blood and so much selfless sacrifice has helped to build. Civilization itself calls for our answer.

The fact that a certain card is led may have a definite message for you as to the remaining cards of that suit held by the leader. When your opponents win the contract you must be on the alert to correctly interpret your partner's opening play. When you are the declarer you must be ready to mirror the leader's hand so that you may be able to find the quickest, safest route to your goal—the game.

One of the essentials of skilful play is the ability to mirror correctly the leader's suit. As a general guide remember that:

The opening lead of the King signifies that the leader also holds the Ace or Queen or both of that suit.
The opening lead of the Queen signifies that the leader also holds the Jack or Jack-10.
The opening lead of the Ace fol-Jack or Jack-10.

The opening lead of the Ace followed by the King signifies that the leader holds no more of that suit and wants his partner to return it at the earliest opportunity so that he may

The opening lead of the Jack signifies that it is in all probability being played from King-Jack-10 or Jack-

In the various national and international conferences called to deal with questions of social political and economic importance, how much reliance is to be placed upon those partcipating, when ratifications of agreements are not forthcoming, thereby rendering proceedings of no effect; by rendering proceedings of no effect?

I do not know of any action so likely to shake the public confidence in administrators as that referred to by your correspondent. Such ethical standards are typical of the followers of St. Lignori, and one is inclined us ask if our statesmen and diplomats are governed by such philosophy in such vital issues as are entrusted to

Dear Sir:—In reply to your letter of the 29th ultimo I enclose, herewith, as desired, a copy of the Handbook "A Cleaner and Brighter Dublin." These handbooks were given to all the city ratepayers hast year when the rates demand notes were being issued. The object was to afford to the citizens information in a succinct form as to the activities of the Corporation, and I have brought up to date the information regarding the city rates, from which you will see that they have with regard to the City's organization, the following information may be of use to you;

Itp to 1924 civic affairs were controiled by an elected corporation consisting of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors, to the number of eighty. In that year by sealed order of the minister for local government and public health the City Council was dissolved and replaced by three paid doministoners; whilst a short time after a parliamentary commission was established to investigate the question of the future city area and method of administration of the City's affairs.
This commission has reported and the general trend of the recommendations is as published in The Cambridge Tribunal, to which you refer. No legislation has yet taken place upon the commission's report. Meanwhile, the City's administration under the order of 1924. In addition to the routinework, the commissioners made a root and branch investigation of the workling of the entire staff—both officers and workmen—with the following results:

standards are typical of the followers of St. Lignori, and one is inclined its ask if our statesmen and diplomats are governed by such philosophy in such vital issues as are entrusted to their care. Equivocation, a play upon words, mental reservations and duplicative may be the methods of diplomacy as shown in the cases cited, but cannot forever fool the people.

The local society of the League of Nations, who instituted a drive for a sone thousand membership, ostensibly in the interest of peace, have been extremely reticent. May I ask, aince their objective is the outlawing of war, why they have not taken their membership and public into their confidence and made public such a state of affairs that these decisions to outliew the lise of poison gas have never been ratified by those governments who were parties to these discussions and agreements?

The result of such failure leaves the various countries free to experiment, were closely investigated and many reforms introduced. The allowances for coal supplies to the various contented the various offices and depots were substantially reduced. On every occasion where a vacancy in staff occurred a view to avoiding a new appointment. Wages have been reduced to the extent of five shillings per week in various stages. The office staffs have abolished and further economy was effected by the standardization of forms and books, etc.

As it is not in my province to express an opinion on the merits of different forms of civic government I merely give you as above a general outline of what has been done by the commissioners, but feel at liberty to state that administration by experts undoubtedly secures very prompt disposal of business.

ELECTION RESULTS

To the Editor:—In the compilation made of the votes cast at the general election, I note that press reports give a majority of 23,969 to the Conservatives over the combined votes Liberals, Laborites and Independen Evidently the compilers have taken t Evidently the complices have taken the number of votes recorded, rather than the number of voters who voted. It is difficult to produce an exact statement, because each voter may cast four votes in Victoria and six in Vancouver, whilst in all other constituencies the voter votes only for one candidate.

If therefore, the Liberal and Con-

If, therefore, the Liberal and Con-servative vote in Victoria and Van-couver is divided by four and six re-spectively, which is the true comparispectively, which is the true compari-son, the results will give a truer pic-ture of the state of parties in the Province. I have also divided the Labor votes by two in Vancouver and placed in the Conservative column the average votes of the Independent Con-servative candidates in Victoria. The results will then work out as follows:

The returns, which do not include the Mackenzie riding, show that twelve Liberal members have been returned, thirty-four Conservative and one Labor representative.

Is not this a travesty of representa-If the parties were fairly represente ng to the votes cast.

sentation would be Liberals

Probably the Mackenzie constituency will return a Conservative, and will therefore slightly alter the figures, but not appreciably.

I do not write this in any party I do not write this in any party spirit, because I should readily concede that the three previous elections were as unfair and unjust to the Conservative, Provincial and Labor parties as this election is to the Liberal, Labor and Independent parties. I do contend that statesmen should discover and act upon a truer solution of voting strength than the present system. Can any of your readers supply the remedy?

It will be seen that the Conserva tives obtained a majority of 28,060 over the Liberals, and 13,634 over all com-

Board Denies Authority For Allenby and Grand Forks

Approves Kootenay Company's Tariff For Other Sections

Approval of the rates charged by the West Kootenay Power and Light Company in a small territory around Rossland is given in a judgment handed down by the Board of Investigation under the Water Branch of the Department of Lands. The board, however, decided that it could not review the rates charged to the Granby Company at Allenby and the City of Grand Forks as they were outside the territory included under the certificate. RATES APPEALED

The appeal against existing rates was brought by the Granby Company and the City of Grand Forks. While the hearing was in progress the point was raised that the inquiry board could not settle the questions between the disputants as the protests came from points outside the area covered by the power company's certificate.

E. C. Mayers, K.C., for the Granby Company, and F. A. McDiarmid, for the City of Grand Forks, argued that the City of Grand Forks, argued that the board was within its rights in setting a rate.

Her sister, Miss Vera Shawyer, was bridesmald, wearing a pretty costume of raile green georgette and with crineral control of the co toll of charges for an area covered by the license of the power company, or that part of West Kootensy within fifty miles of Rossland, but rules that it has no authority over the outside area supplied with power.

ABIDE WITH ME WAS INSPIRED BY DAME CLARA BUTT

Famous Sacred Song Written By Poor Musician She Befriended

London, Sept. 6.—Dame Clara Butt's association with "Abide With Me" is about as celebrated as was Patti's association with "Home. Sweet Home. How the former identification came about is set forth in Winifred Ponder's life story of the famous contraito published here by Harrap.

traito published here by Harrap.

The composer, Samuel Liddle, was a fellow student at the Royal College of Music with Clara Butt. She lost sight of him for some years, and then happened to hear he was earning a precarious living as a hack planist. He eagerly accepted an offer to play regularly for her when she was preparing for engagements.

for engagements.

"You know, Miss Butt." he once de-clared to her , "your voice gets right into my fingers." He went home, her voice ringing in his ears. Next morn-ing he started to write, and at 3 o'clock "Abide With Me." as all the world

SANG IT EVERY DAY

The song, of course, has paid the penalty of its popularity, as the authoress of this book justly remarks, there is cause for gratitude to Providence that one was not called upon to live next door to the lady who wrote to Clara Butt: "I have never missed singing 'Abide With Me' one single day since I first heard you sing it."

Probably Sullivan's "Lost Chord" is the song next most closely associated with Dame Clara Butt. It was not written for her but for Mrs. Ronalds, a famous patron of music of a bygone social age. It was Queen Alexandra's favorite song. There is a tradition that the manuscript of the song was bursted with Mrs. Ronalds. This is wrong, for though the script was bequeathed by the composer to Mrs. Ronalds, it was in turn left by her to Dame Butt, and in a beautiful binding is one of Madame Butt's most creasured possessions.

"LAND OF HOPE AND GLORY"

"Land of Hope and Glory," the refrain of which is taken from Eigar's march, "Pomp and Glerumstances," was written actually at Clara Butt's suggestion. She was talking to the composer just after a performance of the march at the Queen's Hall, and remarked: "What a tune! Why don't you write a song for me and use that as a refrain." "Land of Hope and Glory," of which Dr. A. C. Benson wrote the words, was the result.

A whole chapter might be written around the duet, "The Keys of Heaven." If the letters that have been written to Dame Clars Butt and her husband. Mr. Kennerley Rumford, are to be believed, the song has been responsible for innumerable engagements and love matches, and for the healing of many levers," our part of the part of the lieved, the song has been responsible, for innumerable engagements and hove matches, and for the healing of many lovers' quarrels. In one letter, nevertheless, objection was taken in all seriousness to Clara Butt's acceptance of the "keys" of her lover's heart after her unqualified rejection of "the keys of Heaven." The writer regarded the preference as a grave affront of Paradise.

Haven't you often said, when you are tired to the breaking point, that were tired to the breaking point, that you would be perfectly all right as soon as you had a hot bath and a smail nap? And you found you were, too, refreshed, back all rested, irritability gone, ready to face the remainder of want to play. Who ever heard of a child who voluntarily sat down to rest?

The lessons we learn about our own reactions, ought to help us with the children if we would only put them into practice. When you find young daughter unable to keep peace with the neighbor's children, yelling and screaming hysterically, whining for something to eat, or something "more fun" to do, realize that you are dealing with a tired child. This is no time to yell back that if he ain't good you'll take her in the house. Stop your work. Prepare a warm bath for her and bring her in as if to a delightful treat. Give her some tub toys to play with, and they'll be even more satisfactory if they are kept on a shelf and only usd in such emergencies. Let her stay in for twenty minutes to half an hour. The forced inactivity, the warmth of the water, will let down those frazzled nerves. The child will be rested and calm when taken out. An ideal time for this warm bath is just before lunch. Children who are allowed to play right up to the moment lunch is served are in no spirit to enjoy it. They don't want to come in, they don't want to leave their companions, they are worn out and irritable and appetiteless. The relazation of the warm bath puts them in a proper mood to enjoy their lunch and right afterwards they will be ready to go to bed for their hour of rest or sleep.

The small girl or boy starting into kindergarten and tired with new activities and excitement will profit immeasurably by having his bath directly after school even if lunch is put forward a half hour because of it. Then he is ready for a rest period and an afternoon of play. Of course, it takes times, if that must be a consideration, mothers have to drop what they are doing to a take any longer than to try to calm a crying child, or get your work done under the constant provocation of a whiny child, who can't and won't be pecified?

Mr. Malkin has just returned from a holiday tour around the world and he will give the members some impressions of that tour. The address promises to be an interesting one.

Songs of Farewell

Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—Three hours after an out-of-court settlement of suits filed against her and three others charging fraud in promotion of a Lake Tahoe subdivision, Aimee Semple Mc-Pherson departed amid the blaring of an Angelus Temple band and songs of farewell by a couple of thousand of her followers on her foreign tour.

"I am glad it's over, anyway," said Mrs. McPherson, who declared the settlement did not concern her and that she had no connection with the sale of lots at the subdivision where she had announced plans for a Summer religious Arriving from her matine performance at the Royal Victoria, Madame d'Ambricourt was most generous and gracious in the number and variety of poems which she recited, probably the most haunting and refreshing of which was "Le Vent," when she followed the moods of the wind with rare dramatic-skill. A beautiful poem of Victor Hugo's was given next, and during the recitation of a third poem from St. John's Gospel, "Me Who Is Without Sin," Madame was most sympathetically accompanied at the piano by Miss Eileen Dumbleton. For "Le Cygne," the well-known melody of that name was played by Miss Dumbleton and Miss Irene Bick, violinist. "Variations from the Carnival of Venice," with delicious comedy and pathos, was also accompanied by Miss Dumbleton and Miss Irene Bick with whom Madame shared the applause. RAISED $20 Yesterday afternoon a number of children, between the ages of ten and twelve years, held a very successful sale and garden party at 1070 St. James Street, when nothing over one cent in price was sold. Games of skill were arranged, and prettily-decorated stalls presided over by the kiddies. Stephanie Campbell had charge of the wheel of fortune: Ruth Pangman, lemonade and ginger beer: Bud Pangman, throwing rings; Lois Williams, dart throwing: Bobble Murdock, horse racing; Craig Campbel, guessing competitions, and Laurie Davis. "Bingo." Wilfred Davis was director.

As a result of the efforts of the children, the sum of $20 was realized and will be sent to the Solarium. A similar undertaking was held by the older brothers and sisters of the children two years ago.

Edith Hilltout, aged fifteen, acted as director of the performance, and those taking part were Teddy Hilltout, aged twelve; Douglas, aged eleven: Betty, aged seven; Barbara, aged five; Eleanor and Gordon Aaronson, aged eleven and twelve respectively, and Raymond Rose, aged eight, gold medalist at the British Columbia Musical Festival held here last May. In addition to the programme there was a candy stall, which cleared about $2.

This is the third concert the Deli-Bear Club has given, and the Solarium is amassing the proceeds into a separate fund to be used for some special purpose on behalf of the little Solarium patients.

Eight Japanese Students Will Return Home on Shidzuoka Maru

Returning from a two-months' tour of the United States, eight members of a conducted party from various colleges and universities in Japan, will sail from Victoria to-morrow evening for their homes, on the N.Y.K. liner Shidzuoka Maru. Accompanied by K. Nakamura, who has been the leader of the party while in North America, they will arrive in Victoria to-morrow morning at 7 o'clock from Vancouver and will be welcomed by the local Japanese Association which will entertain them and show them around Victoria.

Japanese Association which will entertain them and show them around Victoria.

Mr. Nakamura, their leader, will not leave for Japan to-morrow, but will stay over to meet another party scheduled to sail from here shortly. The leader is one of the most widely known statesman in Japan. Educated in the United States, he returned to Japan, and for several years was a member of the Japanese Covernment.

The visitors will be met at the Vancouver boat to-morrow morning by representatives of the local Japanese society and taken to breakfast, after which they will be driven to the Victoria High School, where Mr. Nakamura will give a short talk. The Oriental Home, the Provincial Museum and the Parliament Buildings, where Premier Tolmie will greet them, will also be visited before luncheon at the Ishida Hotel. After luncheon visits will be paid to the Saanich Observatory and the Butchart Cardens, before the party leaves for the Outer Wharf where the students will board the Shidzuoka.

In the evening at 7 o'clock Mr. Nakamura will be entertained at a private dinner at the Dominion-Hotel.

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 6—The old British convict ship "Success," built of teak at Mouimein, Burmah, in 1790 and reputed to be the oldest vessel now sailing the seas, entered Canadian waters here yesterday from Alexandria Bay, N.Y. where she has been on exhibition. The old vessel is about to begin a voyage to Australia where she is to be converted into a floating museum as a reminder of the period in which she carried convicts to that country from Great Britain.
The old three-master will be towed down the St. Lawrence and along the Atlantic coast to New York, where she will be reconditioned. From there she will sait to her final destination.
Her last trip across the Atlantic was in 1912, when ninety-eight days were

ETHEL CATHERWOOD ETHEL CATHERWOOD

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 6—As lovely as sver, a happy little smile on her face, Ethel Catherwood, the Saskatoon lily, came home yesterday from her triumphs at the Olymple Games, while a deliriously-happy crowd that filled the Canadian National Railway platform, milled and shouted and struggled in its efforts to show the world's champion high jumper how much it really thought of her. Dressed in white jacket, skirt, hose and shoes, the jacket trimmed with red, and a little red hat perched on her wavy head, "Our med with red, and a little red hat perched on her wavy head, "Our Ethel" stood in the line with the other passengers of car 169 as the Continental pulled into the sta-tion, a ukulele, the parchment cov-ered with "gnatures of Canadian athletes," held carefully in her hand. A delighted smile lit her face as the first Saskatoonian her way on to the car jammed her way on to the car platform to greet her and jokingly informed her "that there were one or two people to meet her." Mayor Norman gave the official welcome.

MADE HUGGINS SORRY

Sam Jones, who takes every opportunity to demonstrate that Miller Huggins erred in trading him "down the river" held the Yanks to six hits and one run in the opening clash yeaterday while his mates fell upon George Pipgras for enough hits to give Sam a neat victory by 3 to 1. Burke and Weaver were not nearly so effective in the second skirmish and Fred Heimach registered an 8-3 success.

In a battle of the lower depths the Detroit Tigers turned on the Chicago White Sox to win by 10 to 2, after the Sox had maitreated the Bengals in a most shameful manner through all the early games of the series.

Other clubs in the American League were unscheduled yesterday.

GETTING READY FOR PHOSPHATE

While the very extensive tests being made under the direction of the agricultural departments of the three provinces with triple phosphate from Tadanac are not yet completed and results available, the reports are very good, and a heavy mail respecting the new product testifies to the keen interest taken by the prairie in the subject. Special seed drills, which sow the fertilizer along with the seed were supplied by the company. Together with sufficient triple phosphate to make widespread tests, and in each province three widely separated areas were selected for the tests, thus securing diversification of condition.

Roberti Crude And Clumsy But Wins a Bout From Solomon

New York, Sept. 6—Roberto Roberti.

225-pound Italian, hammered King Solomon, pudgy heavyweight from Panama, through ten rounds in the feature bout at Ebetts Field last-night, without threatening the veteran boxes seriously with a knockout. Solomov weighed 193½ pounds.

Roberti dropped Solomon for no count with a right to the body in the third round, but hit the canvas himself in the tenth when a wild swing merely fanned his opponent.

Solomon's beat punches had little effect on Roberti, but the Italian conqueror of Johnny Risko, on a foul, was crude and clumsy in his efforts to outbox Solomon.

Alberni. Sept. 6.—The annual gladi-olus and dahlia show of the Alberni District Horticultural Society was held in Clarke's Hall. Alberni, where there was an excellent display of flowers with the exception of the dahlias, which were somewhat disappointing. This is no doubt due to the exception-This is no doubt due to the exceptionally hot and dry spell of weather nacountered recently. Nevertheless the large number who turned out to set the show and enjoy the excellent musical programme provided were well pleased. Afternoon tea and ice cream were served by the ladies, and the various booths were well patronized.

Calwell met the incoming street car in the city, when a description of the bandit was taken.
The man is described as of medium stature, about twenty-three or twenty-four years of age. He wore a fawn cap pulled, well over his forehead, while his face was completely covered by a black mask. He was dressed in a lumber jack sweater and light-colored trousers, the conductor judged.

Mr. Cartwright thought his assailant used a 32 or 38 calibre revolver, which he declared, was fully loaded.
Police are inclined to scout the theory that the hold-up was the work of the same man who held up a couple on Dallas Road last week, forcing them to drive him to Stadacona Park. It is just possible two men may have been engaged in the robbery last night, one having been driver of an automobile for the getaway.

The glycogen is formed from sugars so that a person with insufficient sugars in his diet and in his body becomes easily fatigued. Moreover, oxygen is always used up during muscular activity as a part of the muscle's reaction and it has been established that the greater the oxygen debt, the longer is the process of recovery from fatigue.

These chemical explanations do not, however, completely satisfy, because unquestionably the mental state is related to fatigue. The glands and their secretions have something to do with

Club Members From Wash-ington State Entertained by Local Rotary Group

Members of the Port Angeles Rotary Club were guests of the Victoria Rotary Club at luncheon to-day. The visitors from Washington State numbered about thirty.

President Herbert Anscomb of the local club welcomed the Port Angeles delegation, referring to the fine entertainment provided for the Victoria members when they visited Port Angeles recently. The visit of the United States club was an exhibition of international goodwill which should occur more often, he added.

Matt Sawyer, past president of the Port Angeles club, tendered greetings from the visiting delegation, regretting the absence of the president and vice-president owing to illness. He mentioned the international convention at Minneapolis recently as a source of wonderful inspiration to Rotary and expressed regret that no Victoria delegates had been present.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Coast Copper, which has been selling around 33 to 35, to-day jumped up to 39.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Trading in Mon real stocks started off fairly well, but tion was bestowed on Famous Players early trading, and this trio displayed strength. Players established a new high at 36, but was the only one to maintain its stride and closed at the top. This stock has, doubled in the past mouth. Lyall ran up to 67.

Brewerles moved up to 138, only two under the old peak, but closed easier as there is considerable uncertainty as to when the profosed plan will be carried through. Shawinigan led the power group, and had a sharp run off to 89 after closing Wednesday at 91%, but later moved up to 93. The general reaction was moderate, and most stocks were affected. Bronze went into new high grounds. Fear of a big increase in brokers loans in Wall Street restricted trading at the end of the session. high at 36, but was the only one to

SUIT REVEALS GREAT MAKER OF WAR HARDSHIPS WATCHES DIES

Arrears of Pay Heard in Vancouver Vancouver, Sept. 6.-In an action proceeding in the Exchequer Court of Canada here, a defence has been pleaded by the Canadian Government a claim of J. W. Cook for nearly 83,000 arrears of pay while a member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, that a soldiers pay is a gratuity and there is no legal obligation compelling the Federal authorities to recognize the Federal the claim.

On these grounds, a motion on behalf of the Government will be made before Mr. Justice Audette when he holds a session of the Exchequer Court in Vancouver, September 13, to dismiss the action.

The application will be opposed by counsel for Cook, and it will be argued that the Militia Act has established the matter of a soldier's pay on a con-tractual basis.

Cook's action reveals one of the tragedies of the World War. He en-listed at New Westminster and was a sergeant-major in France, whence he was invalided to England.

While on sick leave, he declares, he was ordered to rejoin his unit and proceeded to Havre with seventy-five other men. There it was found Cook's medical papers were missing, and he was detained at the base four or five days, when he was sent up to the front line. Subsequently the sergeant-major was captured by Germans.

DECLARED DESERTER In the meantime, his leave of ab-sence having expired, he had been-ordered to report, and when he did not, a courtmartial declared him a deserter. In consequence the pay and allowance for himself and his wife

TORONTO MINING MARKET

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Although volume of trading on the Standard Mining Exchange was considerably more than yesterday, activity was confined to but four or five issues. Notable among these was Barry Hollinger, which following rumors of high-grade ore, encountered in a raise from the 1,125-foot level, sold up to 59, and closed 3% points better at 57%-98. Graham Bosquet was also very active, and gained 4 at 29-30. Laval was under heavy accumulation, but only finished one-half point stronger at 21 and 22. Vipond, after opening at 65 receded to 53½, later recovering to 58, where it closed for a net loss of 5½ points. Abana sfer opening at 365 sold up to 390, closing for a gain of 15 points at 380 and 385. Amulet was also very active, and under considerable pressure, finishing five points easier at 385 and 360.

355 and 360.

Malartic continued to be strong, all offerings being quickly absorbed. This issue closed unchanged at 140 to 165.
Sherritt-Gordon was also firm at 715-20, while Sudbury Basin, under pressure, lost 20 to 680-90.

Noranda was only moderately active and lost 30 to 53.50-74.

Pend Oreille finished 40 points better at 13.80 and 14.00, while Hudson Bay lost 14 at 19.01-15.

M'LEOD JUMPS NEARLY 200 POINTS

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—Excitement on the market this morning was intense on the report from Calgary that Mc-Leod had struck the biggest well in the Turner Valley. The news of the gas strike on No. 4 well sent McLeod stock overnight from $4.50 to $6.50. Final tests as to oil quantity and quality in the gas will probably determine the future progress of the stock on the board.

Broker Loan Total

New York. Sept. 6 (By Branson Brown).—The broker loans statement had no influence on the market situation. It showed rather surprising condition. For there was an increase of $214.082.826 over the total as of July 31. The volume of loans as represented in the stock exchange tabulation now stands at $5.061.437,405 and the total of loans is $22.608,867 below the topmost point of May 31. The increase compares with an advance of only $51.229.000 for the period between July 25 and August 29 in the compilation by the federal reserves.

For a number of days the market has had a high degree of confidence apparently in the belief that the Federal Reserve will not increase the pressure on the credit situation. It is reasonably certain that such is the case. If this be true, then the stock market may consider that the chief element of worry has been relieved and that purchasing for long account can be undertaken with greater assurance. This factor of confidence is permeating to every quarter of the country.

Smithers. B.C., Sept. 6.—Power plant at Topley Richfield property is being enlarged, and another Diesel engine and compressor ordered, officials said to-day. These decisions have resulted from the favorable Summer/development on the mine.

In the drillingtof No. 1 hole about rifteen feet of strong mineralization was discovered at depth. More recent reports show that thirty feet of ore is indicated in No. 6 diamond drill hole. The discovery on No. 1 hole was at a depth of about 900 feet, and assays showed $12 to the ton in gold and 90 ounces of silver.

It was believed that No. 1 drill had encountered the downward continuation of the east vein which was discovered shortly after operations began this year, proving the Topley Richfield ore zone as being at least $30 feet wide.

No. 6 hole is the second to be sunk by No. 1 drill in carrying out plans to continue drilling operations in the area.

ORE ENCOUNTERED.

In this second drill hole ore was encountered all the way from 240 to 270 feet, giving a depth of thirty feet.

Drilling is being continued to pick up further ore bodies that will be encountered at greater depth.

Favorable progress is being made on underground development, the most important operation consisting of a cross-cut from the west to the east vein with a view to striking strong showings of high grade ore disclosed on the surface a few weeks ago.

This cross-cut has already been carried through fifty feet of mineralization, some of which has already yielded gratifying values, and while the vein—the main objective of the tunnel—has not yet been attained, water and ore stringers have been showing, which is considered strong evidence that the vein will be found at the point expected.

Carrying out the original programme of development on the west vein, the company has extended the north drift in this section to a point where another raise to surface is required to improve air conditions in underground workings. Awaiting completion of this raise, operations have been transferred to territory south of the main shaft, at which point miners are working on a full face of ore.

Representatives of the church from China and Korea presented in committee statements with reference to the harm being done to the native people in those countries by a class of moving pictures which were on exhibition on a large scale. Objection was not made to moving pictures as they are shown in this country, but it was stated pictures rejected by the Governments of Canada and the United States could be shipped to those lands and exhibited freely. It was said there were also pirated pictures of an even worse character and that the demoralising effects were very great. It was suggested some resolution be passed at the conference with regard to the shipment of such with regard to the shipment of such pictures out of Canada and the United States.

Latest Reports FromOilWells

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—Fabyan Petroleums, drilling near Wainwright, Alberta, has definitely acquired the Grattan Oil Company's holdings, it was announced to-day. The deal was closed during the holidays, all Grattan directors voting unanimously for the Fabyan deal.

The 12,800-acre tract of the Grattan Oil Company adjoins the Fabyan field, and has three uncompleted wells, one being the famous Imperial Oil Company's "mystery well," which has been drilled 2,000 feet. The others are in a position where they may be drilled to production at any time.

Fabyan will proceed with a drilling campaign, and will bring in its own well within the next week, according to company officials. A gas pressure of 6,000,000 feet is making the well difficult to control, but work is progressing rapidly towards production.

Wainwright, Alta., Sept. 6.—The Wainwright, Alta., Sept. 6.—The Wainwell Oil Company expect to have a satisfactory government water test on their No. 2 hole where casing is now set at 500 feet and to resume drilling with three shifts, using standard equipment, within a few days. Work on their refinery is well advanced and will be in position to handle crude from their present No. 1 producer and their No. 2 when brought in.

A Thrilling Story of Fate and the Famous Sweepstake

By E. C. BULEY

Joan had chosen Grapling as a re-treat, because she knew no quieter place. As a girl she had spent cheap, dull holidays there, and was familiar with its little jetty, its shingle and mud beach, and its forborn emptiness at such a time as the end of May, even though the weather was impec-cably fine, and as warm as mid-July. Joan was not disappointed; as far as she could judge, she had Grapling and the Royal Hotel entirely to herself. On the morning of the first day she.

the Royal Hotel entirely to herself.

On the morning of the first day shetried walking off the fury which possessed her, and made clear thinking and ingenious planning impossible. Walking was not adequate: and after lunch she resorted to more violent exercise. She hired from old Ben, the boatman, a cranky little skiff which was a relic of a former Grapling rowing club. It was not a craft Ben letout to everybody; but the sea was caim, and he knew that Joan could manage it well.

calm, and he knew that Joan could manage it well.

So Joan sculled violently away from the jetty, against the current of the ebbing tide, until she was tired. Then she sculled two miles back, with the current running in her favor. At the end of that time she was boiling hot as well as tired. But the repressed fury which had gripped her since her talk with Carol had distinctly leasened.

"I've converted mental heat into physical." Joan murmured, resting on the sculls, and realizing that she was dripping with a healthy perspiration all over. "A dip now would be the right tonic to complete the treat-

But by the time she went to the hotel and got her bathing suit, the pleasant glow would be gone. Besides, the tide was out, and bathing at Grapling was a sticky business under such conditions. Grapling mud had a quality and odor of its own. But here, just off the end of the little jetty, the sunshine was dancing over deep water of a tempting blue smoothness. There was a trick with the sculls which Joan was a trick with the sculls which Joan had learned at college, by means of "Going up the river somewhere to dine and dance." She reflected. "First and loose hair from her eyes. Something for me to do when I come back is to get to know who this man Wareing is."

Joan had chosen Grapling as a result because the back on the leafure of somebody closer to her.

Joan's last vapours of ill-temper grapocated. This was almost too good; but a chance not to be missed. She flung her hands aloft with a long wall, and subsided under the surface, gurgling noisily. She went down slowly, owing to the skirt of the old knitted suit she wore playing the part of a parachute; and when her breath was nearly exhausted, she came up again.

nearly exhausted, she came up again. Her would-be rescuer was in the water now driving towards her like a torpedo. Joan passed his swimming with top marks; he was doing the correct crawl, and making fine time. Once in so many strokes he allowed one corner of his mouth to come out of the water in order to snatch a gulp of air. With another long wail Joan went under again, coming up this time a little sooner.

She had measured the distance ac-

At that he stopped swimming, and raised himself high in the water to survey her. His brown face flushed—probably with anger at the trick played on him. His grey eyes glinted hardly, and his mouth shut like a trap. Joan expected a moment later would bring the outburst of anger she had invited; but he just continued to look at her.
"Very well," he said shortly. "You're

He propelled himself to the other end.

"When I give the word," he said.

"Now!"

They turned the skiff over, emptying much of its water contents by the concerted action.

Fm to get the sculls, you say?" he asked; and Joan was near enough to see that his eyes were twinkling now. Shame came upon her with a rush. She had let him in for a soaking, and made him appear ridiculous, when she could have prevented it by a word; or by an exhibition of her own very competent swimming. In silence she helped to gather the floating oddments and place them in the righted boat.

"We'll take her to the jetty, I suppose?" he asked, and grinned like a boy across at her.

"Too much mud on the beach, Joan said. "And where did all those people on the jetty come from?"

"A free performance gathers a crowd anywhere." was the cheerful reply. "With a little more rehearsal. ..."
"Don't, please." Joan said, turning crimson.

They had reached the jetty, and

"Don't, please." Joan said, turning crimson.

They had reached the jetty, and Joan tied the boat to the ladder.

"Up you go." said her companion.

"Women and children first, you know."

"Yes, and idiots before them." Joan said bitteriy as she began to climb.

"That was what you meant, wasn't it?" she asked, as they stood side by side on the jetty; each the centre of a spreading pool of water.

"Not a bit of it. Rather a lark. Serves me right for being officious."

A boy had collected his discarded clothes, and he accepted them with a word of thanks.

"Tm at the Royal," he said. "And I'm going to run for it. Will you run with me? I mean, you might get a chill, if you hang about."

"Tm at the Royal too." Joan said.

"I'm at the Royal too." Joan said.

"I knew. Saw you there, in fact.
But what about running:"
"Righto." Joan agreed.

The gaping speciators cheered ironically as they set off; but Joan did not seem to mind so much. They ran briskly and without stopping until the hotel entrance was reached.

"I'll order some hot tea in the

Joan was soon free of all traces of her dipping save a certain dankness in her hair. She changed into the prettiest frock she had; a trophy of her last Paris trip. And having surveyed the pleasant and alluring effect of it, she changed a second time—into her business suit of the most severe cut. And then she was angry with herself for troubling two straws about the impression she might make on any man.

The amateur life saver was awaiting her in the lounge. A broad-shouldered and narrow-waisted man, in a grey tweed suit which somehow made him look taller than Joan had realised. Crisp dark hair greying noticeably in places, belied his boyish grin and the

"It's wonderful of you to find a civil word to say after my playing you such a trick," Joan said contritely. "I cannot explain; I simply don't know what possessed me to pretend that I was in difficulties."

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

"Don't ask the young man in to-night, Alice; we have company and Paw's sleeping in the front room."

"What was that you said, and who are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who, not having on his tall, silk hat, could not see very well.

"I am a Grasshopper," was the

"Hush!" whispered the Grasshopper.

"What do you mean?" asked the rabbit.
"Hush!" whispered the Grasshopper.
"I smell danger!"
"Where?" asked Mr. Longears.
"In the air! Up there!" and the Grasshopper pointed one of his long. Jumping legs at the Bald Eagle circling around in the blue sky.
"What! That bird?" asked the rabbit. "The not afraid of him!"
"You had better be," said the Grasshopper. "He has been sent by the Fox and Wolf to get you. I can hear them sneaking along in the tail weeds. You had better run to your bungalow."
"Thank you. I will," said Uncle Wiggily. "You have very sharp ears. Mr. Grasshopper. I promised you some molasses. So if you will, come to my bungalow now I'll give it to you."
Being very fond of molasses, the Grasshopper skipped along with Uncle Wiggily and they were soon in the hollow stump bungalow, the bunny saying he could finish, some other time, citting the grass.
"There! Now Uncle Wiggily has escaped us again!" said the Fox, who, with the Wolf, was hoping the Bald Eagle would catch the rabbit.
"Oh, he can't get away from me as easily as that." screamed the big bird. "I see he has left one of his bungalow windows open. I'll fly in that, catch him in my strong claws and fly out with him."

"Good!" cried the Fox and Wolf, though I think it was rather bad. But no matter about that. In through the window soared the Bald Eagle, most impolitely interrupting Uncle Wiggily, who was asking the Grasshopper how Manufacturers are respensible. (Advt.)

Advances Urged By Sanitary Inspectors

Vancouver, Sept. 6 .- In the interest of public health, provincial legislation throughout Canada should compel higher standards of proficiency among higher standards of proficiency among sanitary inspectors, according to E. tors' Association of Canada here yesterday.

Although the convention did not produce a formal resolution in support of Mr. Hague's proposal, many speakers concurred with the principle. It was shown comparatively few of the provinces were endeavoring to enhance the standard of qualifications for sanitary engineers. Saskatchewan was cited as a pioneer in this regard. Large rural districts, it was pointed out, required more adequate health supervision.

Harry Lauder In "Huntingtower" Dominion Feature

When it was decided to film the famous story, "Huntingtower," John Buchan's great masterpiece, there was only one artist who could do ample justice to the character lead of the story, and that, every director agreed, was Sir Harry Lauder. Sir Harry was not eager to get into pictures, but after persuasion from his friends, he decided to enter the film, and may the lead in "Huntingtower," the big feature production, which by the way will have its premiere at the Dominion Theatre to-day, and will also be shown for the balance of this week. The role of the retired Glasgow grocer as portrayed by the eminent cemedian is a masterpiece, and one of the greatest characterizations of the screen. "Huntingtower" as a picture, is an excellent, exciting, entertaining mysteryromance.

Young Tim Holt, seven-year-old son of Jack Holt, famous screen star, and who heads the cast in "The Vanishing Pioneer" now showing at the Columbia Theatre, has an important part in the picture in which his father appears. Young Tim follows his father's footsteps when it comes to having natural equestrian ability.

While the film company was on location near Zion National Park in Utah, young Tim was thrown several times from the back of frisky horses, but in each case remounted determined that he would master, the horse and not the horse master him. The elder Holt is one of the best horsemen on the Coast, and is a member of the famous Midwick pole club, so it is the profound hope of both father and son, that the youngster be as adept in horsemanship as the father.

Upon one occasion, Tim mounted a frisky horse that promptly bucked and threw young Holt. Walking over to where his father was standing and who had been watching him he remarked: "I'm a little dazed, Dad, but I'll ride him." "Yes," answered Jack, "you'll ride him, son." And he did. 'll ride him." "Yes," answered J you'll ride him, son." And he did.

CABARET SCENE BIG FEATURE OF COLISEUM FILM

The gay hilarity of a cabaret was duplicated during the filming of "Skirts," Sydney Chaplin's latest starring vehicle released through Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and being shown at the Coliseum Theatre.

Almost the entire cast had to take part in the action which takes place in the cabaret. So spontaneous was the hilarity of the actors in these scenes that one venturing on the set would think that they were actually "whooping it up" of their own free will and having a glorious time doing it.

BILLIE DOVE HAS LET HER TRESSES GROW

Now that bobbed hair seems to be going out, for the time at least, how may one wear one's partly-grown hair becomingly? Let a beautiful screen star solve the problem for you!

One of the answers, and at the same time an indication of the fact that bobbed hair is really becoming passe, is given by Billie Dove in her latest starring vehicle for First National. "The Yellow Lilly." This exotic romance was adapted from Lajos Biro's stage play of Hungarian locale, and the star appears as a stylish maiden of modern Hungary.

Since the long bob is a la mode in Budapest now, the length of Miss Dove's hair just suited the part. But in common with literally dozens of other feminine screen celebrities, she is mon with literally dozens of other feminine screen celebrities, she is growing long hair. And it must be remembered that screen folk must keep ahead of the fashions.

In "The Yellow Lily" now at the Variety Theatre, you will see not only the correct Hungarian hair style, but a charming and original way of wearing the growing bob. It almost constitutes a totally new style in coiffures,
